

Asim Lynch

Asim Lynch concentrates his practice in real estate and community development, nonprofit formation and governance, and faith-based development.

Prior to joining Goldstein Hall, Asim was a Staff Attorney at Neighborhood Legal Services Program and represented limited equity cooperatives in Washington, D.C. on a host of real estate, corporate, and governance matters related to owning and operating affordable cooperative housing.

While in law school, Asim was a member and business manager of the Charles Hamilton Houston National Moot Court Team and twice competed in the Global Antitrust Institute's annual competition. Asim held an externship with the Securities and Exchange Commission, the Sustainable Economies Law Center, and Goldstein Hall.

Asim earned his law degree from Howard University School of Law and his undergraduate degree from Florida International University.

Associate

New York City

alynch@goldsteinhall.com

646.768.4114

Bar Admissions

The State of New York
District of Columbia

Education

Howard University School of Law, Washington D.C., Juris Doctor
Florida International University, Miami, FL, Bachelor of Arts in Sociology and Minor in Public Relations

